Bonaire's WebCams

Caribbean WebCams has its cameras pointed at several locations on the island dive destination of Bonaire, but it's ReefCam been named as one of the world's 25 most interesting WebCams in the world.

Installed on a pristine reef at the Small Wall dive site last year, more than 210,000 Internet users have viewed live images from Bonaire's ReefCam. The camera is mounted in approximately 8-10 feet of depth on a private mooring about 300 feet south of Small Wall, and updates the site with a new image every two minutes.

We are quite proud of the prestigious honor EarthCam has bestowed on our Bonaire ReefCam, considering there are thousands and thousands of WebCams on the Internet to select from, says Jake Richter, chief operating officer of Caribbean WebCams.

Bonaire Reefcam

The Bonaire ReefCam has been named as one of the world's 25 most interesting WebCams.

The island's first-of-its-kind ReefCam was installed on a pristine reef last year. Since its official launch in August, more than 210,000 Internet users have viewed live images from the ReefCam at www.BonaireWebcams.com

Bonaire's ReefCam was honored by a panel of judges as part of a competition organized by EarthCam, the world's leading WebCam portal.

We are quite proud of the prestigious honor EarthCam has bestowed on our Bonaire ReefCam, considering there are thousands and thousands of WebCams on the Internet to select from, says Jake Richter, chief operating officer of Caribbean WebCams, the company which developed and owns the Bonaire Reefcam.

Richters says the honor also recognizes and validates our efforts of bringing the world the first true underwater ReefCam where people can view corals and fish as they occur in nature, live, 24 hours a day, seven days week.
